Great preparations are being made for the fair this week

E. M. Newman has advertised a large sale of stock and farming implements for Saturday, the 24th inst.

Our September County Court as usual was largely attended with considerable stock in the market.

Messrs. Gudgell and Dearing, the Re-publican and Democratic electors for this district, met in joint debate at the Courthouse County Court Day. The discussion was conducted in an able and gentlemanly manner. Both gertlemen made good impressions upon the citizens of Robertson. While Mr. Dearing displayed no small amount of oratorical and rhetorical style and ability he did not successfully combat the many points made by Mr. Gudgell who had the best of the argument all the way through.

Henry Wade Kogers, chairman of the committee on jurisprudence and law reform, has issued a call for a congress of lawyers, judges, legal anthors, legis-lators and law officers of the government during the fair. An endless variety of topics will be discussed. The committee says it is hoped that a permanent international bar association will be the outgrowth of these conventions, and adds: "An international bar association, composed of representatives from the bars or bar associations of all civilized countries, will not only bring together the representative lawyers of the world from time to time to discuss, perfect and gradually harmonize the laws of their respective constituencies, but will also promote the forming of those ties of universal brotherhood which are the chief elements of modern civilization. Such an association will also naturally he material out of which tribunals will be constructed, and will also be of great assistance to lawyers of different countries in matters arising under treaties or the general international law in their respective countries, in the protection of clients while in foreign jurisdictions, and in many other matters unnecessary now to detail." DILEMMA OF A PRINCE.

He Has Two Rather Compromising La-suits on His Hands. Rome correspondent sends us some interesting details of two lawsuits now going on against Prince Sciarra-Colonna, says the London Daily News. In the first the government is charging him with the sale and exportation of rare pictures and objects of art to France, and in the second his creditors are suing him. As to the pictures, it has been found how the prince succeeded in exporting them. At the back of his palace is a theater, the Quirino. Into the courtyard of the palace large Into the courtyard of the palace large boxes were carried similar to those in which theatrical companies transport stage properties. Then the "Violin Player" of Eaphael and pictures by Player" of Eaphael and pictures by Player" of Raphael and pictures by Titian were packed in these, together with the scenery, and the whole was sent to France scheduled as "theatrical furniture." The "Violin Player" is famous as being one of Raphael's last works. It bears the date 1815-two years before his death-and it is interesting as bearing a resemblance to the painter. This act has been impugned as illegal, firstly, because the gallery is entailed, and secondly, because, even if it were not so, the exportation of objects of art is prohibited unless the right of preemption is offered to the

A King Pockets Cake.

When the royal family moved to San Sebastian recently from the Spanish capital, a luncheon, as usual, was given by the city in honor of the guests. As the repast was served at 8 o'clock King Alfonso was not hungry. In order to show his appreciation of the action of his subjects, however, and to provide against contingencies, he took two of the best pieces of cake from a plate, and remarking to a neighbor: "They are for after awhile," placed them in his pocket.
